LOOKING AHEAD TO OUR AUGUST CONCERT
Larry Toft’s Red Hot Ramblers
Sunday, August 22, 2021, 2:00 to 4:30 pm
A concert INDOORS at the Community Arts Center, Wallingford PA and a Live Stream Event on Facebook and YouTube

The Red Hot Ramblers are an authentic 1920s jazz ensemble in every way. They exemplify red-hot syncopation, stompin' rhythms, and lyrical melodies associated with the Jazz Age. The repertoire can extend before and after the 1920s from the early years in Jazz, such as New Orleans Style and Ragtime, up to the swing era of the 1930s and 40s and even into the modern Second Line New Orleans parade style. The Red Hot Ramblers have been pleasing audiences in every type of venue, from concert halls to dimly-lit bars to swing dances to outdoor events/weddings. Welcome them on their return to Tri-State, to recreate their success with us from November 2017.

Dan Levinson’s Palomar Jazz Band with Molly Ryan
Live-streamed from Studio 111, Brooklyn, NY on Sunday, June 6, 2021
REVIEW by Jim McGann

The first time I remember Dan Levinson performing for Tri-State was back in 2001 or 2002. It was his reading of Jelly Roll Morton's “Shreveport Stomp” that blew me away. Ever since, Levinson with his various bands (the Palomar Jazz Band, Fete Manouche, the Three Benny Opera) have never failed to please. This edition of the Palomar Jazz Band was no exception. Why? The simple ingredients - great musicians, material and presentation.

The afternoon kicked off with one of Jelly Roll Morton's raucous flag wavers, "The Chant," taken at a hurried tempo, with Levinson taking the fluid Omer Simeon part, Mike Davis the punchy, forceful George Mitchell part, and the rowdy Kid Ory 'bone played by Jim Fryer. Dalton Ridenhour and Rob Adkins got their choruses in, with the latter produced some effective slapping bass.

Introducing Molly Ryan, who had one of her best performances this day, beginning her part of the program with a song written by Harold Arlen and Ted Koehler for the Cotton Club Revue of 1933, "Get Yourself A New Broom (And Sweep The Blues Away)." The band takes a later 1930s approach with the tune, a distinct departure from the Ellington recording. It works; with Davis’ climbing arpeggios in his trumpet solo and Jim Fryer, growling without a plunger mute, keeping the Ellington connection intact.

From the motion picture King of Jazz, "So The Bluebirds and Blackbirds Got Together," a vehicle for Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys, is taken as an instrumental jazz arrangement. Hearing it makes one envision walking into a speakeasy and this is what the band on stage is playing. Despite the 1920s motif, the band takes a light swing approach. Levinson's clarinet departs from the heavy swinging clarinets of the day, providing light, spatial sounds from his horn.

"All God's Chillun' Got Rhythm" had Molly Ryan singing the rare verse. Again, a slightly modern approach - Levinson on tenor backed by brass injecting, Ridenhour's piano a cross between Basie and Shearing, and Davis a bop phrase in his solo. Ryan holds out the last note for 10 measures. Going out of sequence, "Ill Wind" another item from the Arlen-Koehler portfolio, had Ryan's vocal back by Levinson on bass clarinet and muted brass, creating a haunting, somewhat mournful background for Ryan's subtle melancholy vocal.

The horn players had their turn at the vocal chair - Mike Davis on "If I Had A Talking Picture..." and "Keep Your Sunnyside Up."

Levinson on tenor sax assimilating the great Lester Young, Ridenhour providing a light pianistic touch like Basie but not aping the former, and Adkins acquiesced the Walter Page sound.

There are other highlights to write about - Ridenhour's great turn on James P. Johnson's "Keep Off The Grass," with a subtle reference to "Handful of Keys." Dorn's solo on "Nobody's Sweetheart," the romantic arrangement and vocal on "I Know Why and So Do You," and the rarely heard Oscar Levant composition, "If You Want the Rainbow (You Must Have the Rain)."

Levant's composition contains the line, "Happiness comes double after a little pain, if you want the rainbow, you must have the rain." It is understated to say that we have been through our share of storms in recent times. While we are not completely out of it, it was nice to come out of the rain and enjoy the fine music of Dan Levinson's Palomar Jazz Band.

The Jazz Lobsters Big Band
Ben Mauger’s Vintage Jazz Band
Sunday, June 20, 2021
REVIEW by Jim McGann

Ben Mauger - cornet, trumpet
Bob Rawlins - clarinet, soprano and C-melody saxes
Bob Peruzzi - trombone
Bob Kreitz - piano
Doug Kulp - drums

The great Duke Ellington, in his book, Music Is My Mistress, strongly emphasized the importance of a strong left hand if one were to pursue a career as a pianist.

For Bob Kreitz, the litmus test for pianistic fortitude arrived in the absence of a bass/tuba at Sunday’s concert. The late scratch put the bass line responsibility on Bob’s left hand. How successful Kreitz was in pulling off this feat resulted in a fellow associate inquiring where the bass player was playing on stage! Ben Mauger’s Vintage Jazz Band has been a mainstay of TSJS since the early 2000s. The cornetist, along with front liners trombonist Bob Peruzzi and clarinetist-saxist Bob Rawlins, almost always guaranteed an enjoyable time whenever they performed for TSJS. For this Sunday, The VJB performed a mostly Beiderbecke book, with snatches of Louis and others throughout the day.

The concert opened with “I’m Comin’ Virginia” with Rawlins taking the Tram intro on C-melody, and Kreitz, because of the absence of a guitar, took Eddie Lang’s break toward the conclusion of the Heywood/Cook composition. From there, the band kicked into high gear with “At The Jazz Band Ball,” with solos from the front line and Kreitz. “Davenport Blues” was significant for the leader’s subtle hinting of another Bix hit on cornet: “Singin’ The Blues.” Also noteworthy were the brass interludes by Peruzzi and Mauger.

Noteworthy in the early portion of the concert was the unveiling of an old Wolverines tune, “Big Boy.” Beginning with a “Darktown Strutters Ball” intro, the upbeat melody inspired swinging solos from the horns. J. C. Johnson’s “Louisiana” and Rodgers and Hart’s “Thou Swell” seemed to feed off the earlier Wolverine tune. On the latter tune, Mauger incorporated some Bixian phrasing.

Band break. Kreitz provided a solo piano performance on Zez Confrey’s “Dizzy Fingers” followed by Bob Rawlins on soprano sax and backed by Doug Kulp on one of only two Fats Waller compositions of the afternoon, “Honeysuckle Rose.”

The first set closed with two classic tunes associated with Bix; “Clementine (From New Orleans)” and “Since My Best Gal Turned Me Down.” On the former, the small band executed the expansive Challis arrangement quite nicely, with Peruzzi taking on the Bill Rank part, Rawlins taking on the Goldkette sax section and Tram’s solo, and the leader a fiery Bix. The latter is a tour-de-force with the horns adding new touches to this 1920’s warhorse.

The second set brought with it more goodies from the past. After the opener, “Royal Garden Blues,” we were treated to two Paul Whiteman numbers, “The Baltimore” and “My Pet.” Again, like the earlier Goldkette number, the band more than compensated these big band pieces, with exceptional Rawlins clarinet on the former, and Doug Kulp making the most of his solo opportunity on the latter.

“Mama’s Gone, Goodbye” was the most relaxed performance of the afternoon, with Bob Rawlins taking a full chorus on C-melody sax, and Mauger doing some creative double-timing on his solo. Kreitz, when introducing the tune, mentioned Peter Bocage as performing this tune. As a modest collector, I do remember a recording by vocalist Midge Williams in the late 1930s. Whatever! The tune’s relaxed nature spilled over into the next number, “Sunday,” offering more Rawlins on C-Melody.

Another band break. Kreitz repeated a performance from his earlier solo piano concert for TSJS, the “Jazz Dance Repertoire” from what was known as the “Rag-A-Jazz” era; the late 19-teens. Having heard both performances, I found myself leaning towards the earlier solo performance, not because Kreitz’s performance was in anyway diminished. The keyboard was the issue, sounding rather celestial. The pianist himself alluded to his preference of the CACs piano earlier in the concert.

Of the five remaining titles performed, the rare Louis Armstrong number, “I’m Not Rough,” inspired an economized Rawlins clarinet solo – simple in execution but making every note count, Peruzzi’s had the boisterousness of a Kid Ory but with the creativity the elder trombonist lacked, and Mauger had the opportunity to show his Louis side on his horn. He must have been chomping at the bit, for all the Beiderbecke material required a subtler approach on the horn. As an indication of things to come, the rideout chorus on the earlier “Royal Garden Blues” had Louis written all over it!

The concert closed with “Chinatown, My Chinatown.” Not the expected closing theme, which was “Bye, Bye Blues,” but nonetheless a fitting way to close an afternoon with Ben Mauger’s Vintage Jazz Band.
